Various investment options

There are many investment options to increase your savings:

- Saving accounts
- Fixed Deposits
- Mutual Funds
- Insurance- Life and Health

- Most common, easy and safe means of saving money
- Available with Government, Banks and Post Offices
- Good for short term investment
- Assured returns though relatively lower interest rates
- Withdrawals allowed at any time
- Supported with Govt. guarantee

Fixed deposits (FD) and Recurring deposits (RD) are among the best ways to invest your idle savings and have them work for you.

- They give fixed returns with safety of money invested. Banks pay you a fixed interest at a specific frequency till the term or on maturity.
- In FD you invest a lumpsum amount and the entire money earns interest for one year. But in a RD you invest monthly, hence the 1st instalment earns interest for 12 months period, the 2nd for 11 months, 3rd for 10 months and so on. Due to this variation FD is able to fetch a higher maturity amount as compared to RD.
- When you do not have a lumpsum to invest and can save a defined amount from your income every month, RD is a more viable product.
- But when you have a lumpsum to invest then FD is a wiser choice.

- Money pooled from various investors
- Invested in different funds- Diversification
- Professionally invested and managed by fund managers
- No barrier on withdrawals
- Offers higher interest rates than saving accounts
- Government regulated
- No predictable returns
- Attracts charges and fees

- A unique saving and protection tool
- Protects families from financial losses due to sudden death or health ailments
- Considered as base of any financial planning
- Offer wide variety of Products to help individuals save along with protection, along with moderate returns*
- Best tool to mitigate life uncertainties and create long term savings and protection
- Helps save income tax
